HARRIS' HAIR BALM
For your hair.

HEART THRILLING GEMS.

TOUCH YOUR LIPS WITH GLADNESS.

Are you growing weary of the long
and rugged road,
Weary of the burden, oh my brothers?
Men have found the surest way for lightening the load
Is just to try and lighten it for others.
Hearts still hold the most of love that most their lives bestow
On lonely lives of those who are forlorn;
Hail the stone from out the path where tired feet must go
And touch your lips with gladness
every morning.

Touch your lips with gladness and go singing on your way.
Smiles will strangely lighten every
day;
Just a little word of cheer may span a sky of gray
With hopes own heaven-tinted bow
of beauty.
Wear a pleasant face where'er you shine a joyful ray.
As shines the sun, the happy fields
adorn;
In every care-bedecked life some ray
of light impart.
And touch your lips with gladness
every morning.
—Nixon Waterman.

SOMETHIN' IN EACH DAY.

Written for the Journal.
Used to feel and worry when things
went ain't right, Sometimes felt as though I like to drop down out of sight;
Now life's worth the livin' all the time—I've seen the light—Somethin' in each day to make me
thankful.
Thought I was as miserable as any chap stray
To the north where sorrow and misfortune laid their way, Till I heard a still, small voice, as this I came to see:
"Somethin' in each day to make ye
thankful."

Learned a master lesson that I never shall forget—
"Gather the glory as it burns within me yet,
's I know 'twill help adorn" until
life's sun has set—
Somethin' in each day to make me
thankful.

Never were misfortune, but there might have been some more.
Where there was but one mistake
there might have been a wrong;
's I know 'twill help adorn until
life's sun has set—
Somethin' in each day to make me
thankful.
I could not but live upon this earth of ours,
Thankful for the rain, the sun, as well
as for the flowers
Thankful for the love of God that fills the world with light and somethin' in each day to make me
thankful.
Edwin A. Macra.

A WISH.
I wish you would cover me with pansies
When you have made me ready to go Into the arms of earth who will wrap
me
Warmly about with roses or snow.

The roses are far too red, and lilies
Are far too pale; but the pansy dye
Is the very hue of my heart, so lay me
In a bed of pansies where I die.

Pluck the pansies in beautiful measure Flowers I've always loved best to hold;
Shower them over bosom and pillow, Heartsease in purple and white and gold.

For they are the flowers of remembrance
And by and by you will find it sweet
Just to remember you left me lying Covered with pansies from head to feet.

And they are the flowers of affection;
You never will think of me as dead,
You will remember where you left
me,
Covered with pansies from feet to head.

Dead! I am not. I can hear you speaking;
I see your flowers; I smell their breath.
Thanks, O my friend! these delicious
pansies
Make a gift as fragrant—pure as death.

And death is the "gift of gifts" God
gives us
When we are tired of work and play
Death is the sleep before the morning,
Death is the dawn and Heaven the
day.

Now bind and listen—you'll hear
these pansies
They're eloquent voices low and deep,
And they will tell you what dreams
I'm dreaming
For I must be silent; I'm asleep.
Now, weep not, sigh not; go ye forth singing
Sing in your heart jubilate sweet
Only remembering where you left me
Buried in pansies from head to feet.
By Maad Manning.

Curious Styles of Letter Endings.
Any one in the habit of perusing old letters is struck with the use of great humility and deference which pervades the correspondence of our ancestors.

A few specimens of the style of beginning and ending letters may prove interesting as in striking contrast to the laconic "yours obediently," "faithfully" or "truly" of the present day.
It would certainly be difficult to match
the following subscription of a letter from the Duke of Shrovetbury to Sir Thomas Flammer, dated September, 1713: "I desire that you will believe that, wherever I am, I shall always endeavor to deserve and very much value your friendship, being, with a sincere esteem, sir, your most faithful and obedient servant, Shrovetbury."
Recently one meets with bellicose subscriptions, as in the case of the Earls of Rutly and Errol, who in 1591 threatened "awful consequences to the magistrates of Aberdeen unless they released certain gentlemen imprisoned in their city and inscribed,
"Yours as ye will, either present peace or war."

Arithmetic by Hand.
We shall never be in danger of forgetting our ancestors did their sums on their fingers so long as arithmetic retains the word "digits." But modern civilization knows nothing of the elaborate developments of this method. It takes a Wallachian pen-sant to multiply 8 by 9 on his hands.
This is how he does it: The fingers of either hand, beginning with the thumb, stand for the numbers from 5 to 10.
So the ring finger of one hand and the middle finger of the other are stuck out to represent 8 and 9. Counting the fingers remaining on the side farthest from the thumb he finds them 1 and 2 respectively, and 1 multiplied by 2 gives him the units of his product—2. Then he counts from the thumbs to the stuck out fingers inclusive, finds them 3 and 4, adds these,
and gets 7 for his tens. Answer, 72.
All this to avoid knowing the multiplication table beyond 4 times 4!

For the Judge's Information.
The police court judge could not repress a smile when his eyes rested on a card that was lying on his desk during a session of the court. On it were printed two stanzas under the title
"The Perfect Man," and he could not but look at the motley gang of prisoners who sat before him. And he did not think the card had been dropped accidentally. The verses read:
There is a man who never drinks,
Now smokes, nor chews tobacco,
Who never gambles, never fights,
And shuns all sinful pleasures—
He's paralyzed.

There is a man who never does anything that is not right,
His wife can tell just where he is
At morning, noon and night—He's dead.
—Indianapolis News.

Pleaded an Extension.
An Indiana youth had called with a cab to take the judge's daughter to a dance, scarcely two blocks from her home. The judge entered the room where the youth was waiting. Pacing across the room a couple of times with his head bent and thoughts concentrated, he came short about in front of the youth and exclaimed:
"Young man, this cab hiring to go
two blocks is foolish, unwise, un-thoughtful, misguided, unreasonable, having a prodigally—a— I am surprised. My daughter is fresh and blood, and she won't wait, and if her room should be called I bought it,
and I can buy her."
"That's all right, judge, but my father is paying for that cab"—Woman's Home Companion.

The Cures.
An Irish authority thus defines as an expert the effects of a well delivered curse: "The belief among the ancient Irish was that a curse once pronounced must fall in some direction.
If it has been deserved by him on whom it is pronounced it will fall on him sooner or later, but if it has not then it will return upon the person who pronounced it. They compare it to a wedge with which a woodman cleaves timber. If it has room to go it will go and cleave the wood, but if it has not it will fly out and strike the woodman himself who is driving it between the eyes."—London Globe.

Strict Women Who Love.
The strictest women are at times the most loving. When this happens their attachment is as strong as death, their devotion as resolute as the diamond.
They are hungry for devotion and affection for sacrifice. Their love is a plenty, their tenderness a religion, and they triple the energy of love by enshrining it as a duty.—Heart Frederic Ansel.

Shadows.
The shadows of the mind are like those of the body. In the morning of life they all lie basking in the sun, we struggle them underfoot, and in the evening they stretch long, broad and deepening before us.

An Exception.
She (protestingly)—That's just like you men. A man never gets into trouble without dragging some woman in with him. He—Oh, I don't know.
How about Joseph in the whaler?—Hon-ton Transcript.

A Mean Retort.
Bertha—If you ever asked me to carry you, it was because I refuse. Will (cheerfully)—Oh, don't worry! Perhaps you know best what I'm carrying.

The highest exercise of charity is charity toward the uncharitable.

RUMFORD.

Mrs. E. Swimer spent Sunday in Portland visiting friends.

Wyatt Hanlett returned Monday from Exeter Academy, where he is a student and will spend some time with his mother, Mrs. H. W. Hanlett.

Mrs. Peter Morris returned Monday from Boston, where she has been for some days on business.

Mrs. E. S. Reardon spent Sunday as the guest of her mother, Mrs. Sweet of Portland.

Miss Della Rutherford is able to be out again after a run of typhoid fever.

Mr. Geo. H. Chubb left Tuesday morning to attend the graduation of her daughter, Miss Olive Chubb, who graduates this year from St. Joseph's Academy at Deering.

Miss Caroline Marx is at home for the summer recess from Hebron Academy.

L. W. Blanchard returned Saturday from Augusta where he has been attending the school of military instruction for the past week.

An item appeared in the Lewiston Journal which was misinterpreted by the people of Rumford, the item being the notice of the death of Mrs. Ellen Hegarty of Winthrop. Many persons thought it was the mother of Miss Mary Hegarty, formerly employed in this town by Bisbee & Parker, but they will be interested to learn that it was an aunt of Miss Hegarty's and not her mother.

Mrs. H. L. Elliott and daughter, Olive, returned from No. Abington, Mass., Saturday, where they have been the guests of Mrs. Elliott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wyma.

Guy Gardner and wife of Dixfield were in town on Tuesday with their new Maxwell car.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stowell of Dixfield, who have many friends in this town, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on Monday.

Dr. Unger of New York is the guest of Chas. Israelson and family. Dr. Unger is spending some time also at the Lakes.

Mrs. E. O. Ames entertained a few friends at whist on Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Nancy Colby of Rumford Center. A pleasant time was spent and dainty refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the hostess.

Mrs. W. B. Stewart of Skowhegan is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. B. Bradstreet for a short time.

Mrs. Nancy Colby of Rumford Center was the guest of Mrs. A. K. Martin over Sunday.

Many of the teachers left town on Saturday morning for their respective towns, among those leaving were Miss Helen Hopkins, Miss Margaret Leighton, Miss Bridgman and Miss Meahan. Miss Leighton has accepted a better position in Abington, Mass., and will begin there in September. Many of the others will come back.

Mrs. R. T. Parker returned from the Lakes, Monday, after having spent several weeks at her camp on the Rangeley.

Mr. O. D. Bisbee is attending Commencement at Hebron Academy this week.

Mrs. J. P. Shepard spent Monday in Dixfield on business.

The friends in town of Arthur Cushman will be interested to know that he gave a recall in No. Abington, Mass., on June 18th at the home of Walter O. Wyman. The affair was a most delightful one. Mr. Cushman was assisted by Dr. Kees A. Noonan of Boston; Harold Bowman, of Coventry, N. Y.; and Miss Marion Watson of Somerville, Mass. Mr. Bowman was a violinist of note and Dr. Noonan a splendid cellist, while Miss Watson has made a name for herself by her beautiful soprano voice. Eight of Mr. Cushman's pupils took part in the recital. Following the musical program punch and crackers were served and a delightful informal reception held. Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Elliott of this town and Mrs. John Hathaway of Bryant's Pond were present. Mr. Cushman will accompany Mr. Bowman to his home in Coventry, N. Y., where he will assist Mr. Bowman in giving a recital with his pupils.

Miss Charlotte French returned Monday night from a week's visit spent with her parents in Levant, Me.

Mr. Dickey accompanied by his son, Joe, went to Mechanics Springs, Saturday, which is the home of Mr. Dickey's parents. Master Joe stayed to spend a part of his vacation with his grandparents.

Lake Hadley returned Saturday from San Antonio, Texas, where he has been for several weeks and reports that he had a fine time.

Arthur McGraw was in Portland last week from Thursday to Saturday.

Miss May Morse and Miss Margaret Townsend left for their home in Waterville, Me., on Sunday by automobile. Miss Morse's father coming after them in his car.

Miss Olive Dunn, a cousin of Miss Elizabeth Quade arrived in town on Saturday from St. Stephen, N. H., to accept a position in the office of Jan.

H. Kerr.

Miss May Hasset left Monday to attend the graduation exercises at St. Joseph's Academy at Deering.

Mr. Walter Metcalf was called to So. Bend, Indiana, by the serious illness of his father, the last of the week.

Veo Small arrived in town, Friday from Mr. Hermon where he is attending school, after attending the graduation exercises of the H. H. S. He left Saturday morning for the Birehes, where he will be employed as clerk for A. Barker for the summer.

Mrs. Susie Titus of Andover was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Walter Berry, the last of the week.

Miss Elizabeth Quade will leave Friday for St. Stephen, N. B., where she will spend a six weeks' vacation with her parents. Her place at the International Mill will be filled by Mrs. J. E. W. Clark.

Mrs. Pease of Wilton was the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. B. Stevenson over Sunday and was accompanied home by her daughter, Mrs. Pease, who has been spending some weeks here and her nephew, Shirley Stevenson.

Miss Susie Virgin left Friday morning to spend a short vacation with relatives in Waterville.

Mrs. John McGregor left Saturday for Waterville to attend the wedding of her cousin, Mr. Abbott.

Miss Jane McGivney is in Boston this week on business.

R. T. Parker left Wednesday to attend the Commencement Exercises at Bowden.

Dr. Sheehy and Miss Melitta Carroll went to Phillips, Sunday, to visit Mrs. Sheehy and daughter, Kathleen. The doctor went in his automobile, making good time.

Mrs. Louise Baker of Brooklyn, N. Y., was the guest of Miss Elizabeth Pettengill for a few days last week.

Miss Gates of Dixfield is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Eugene Ames for a few weeks.

Joe Rigby left Wednesday for Stratford, N. H., where he will visit his parents; from there he will go to Boston for a short trip.

There will be a special meeting of Oxallie Temple, June 22nd, 8:30 o'clock. There will be an initiation, and refreshments served later.

Welcome Rebekah Lodge of Dixfield has extended an invitation to the Purity Lodge of this town to attend a meeting on June 23rd, at Dixfield, Welcome Lodge to do the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gilpatrick returned Monday from a two weeks' visit with Mr. Gilpatrick's parents, at Newcastle, Maine.

Mrs. Walter Metcalf will leave this week for the Birehes, where she will stay for a few weeks vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Paluan returned Wednesday from a trip to Kingsfield and Livermore. They were accompanied by their granddaughter, Miss Dorothy Longley.

Miss Ella Clark of So. Paris is the guest of P. B. Clark and family for a few days.

Miss Alma Fisher has completed her duties at McKeezie's store and will accept another position.

On Sunday morning Miss Kathryn Brown was much pleased by the tokens of appreciation, which the Bible Class and other members of the Sunday School of the Baptist Society, showed of her singing for the past year, by giving her two five dollar pieces.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Orlick will leave on an automobile trip on Thursday, which will take in the White Mountains, finally stopping at Northampton, Mass. Miss Kathryn Brown will accompany them on this trip which will take her within a few miles of her home, which is in Wakefield, Mass.

Stomach Troubles Relieved.

Those people who suffer with the distressing symptoms attending chronic dyspepsia will be interested to read the following voluntary testimonial:—

"I have kept the L. F. Atwood's bitters in the house for over twenty years and have received great benefit from them. It does seem as though I could not keep house without them. In the past I have had a very bad stomach trouble, and could hardly do my work. After taking a few bottles of the true L. F. Atwood's Medicine, I became much better. My niece has also been greatly benefited by them. We both are willing to recommend the medicine to all who need a remedy for dyspepsia and constipation." Mrs. C. B. Downing, R. F. D. THE PITY OF WOMEN.

WHEN gamblers med a fool av him
Th' wimmen med excuse.
They vowed 'twas brave an' cool
Av him.

To lose all on th' deuce.
Th' wimmen said 'twas plain
Some was had med a fool av him
Or he had been insane.

'Twas beautiful to hear him smile
An' hear him vow in lovely style
He'd straighten up in half an' while
An' stop his raisin' Cain.

When loads med a fool av him
Th' wimmen told his dad
'Twas nothin' less than cool av him
To be stern with the lad.

Sure it was fine to hear him vow
He was too good to reap an' blow
Too nice for hard-wor'd an' slow.
"He is so young," they'd add.

When wimmen med a fool av him—
Oho! 'Twas a d'fist thint
Their words was few an' cool av him.
They hated him like sin.

"Th' wimmen," they said, "they'd add."
"Dye mind, now, what I a'bra said!"
"They'll say an' lose sich purty head."
"He's just like all th' kind!"

Appreciation.
A Washington woman has in her employ as butler a dandy of a pompous and satisfied man who not long ago permitted a chocolate colored dandy, long his ardent admirer, to become his spouse.

On one occasion when the mistress of the house had occasion temporarily to avail herself of the services of the butler's wife it was observed that whenever the duties of the two brought them in conjunction the bride's eyes would shine with extraordinary devotion.

"Your wife seems wonderfully attached to you, Thomas?" casually observed the mistress of the house.

"Yes, ma'am," answered Thomas complacently. "Ain't it just sickening?"—Harper's Magazine.

Deception Would Be Wasted.
"Are you going to the indignation meeting this afternoon?"

"Where?"

"At Mrs. Midgeley's. The ladies of our street are uniting in a protest against the appointment of a woman census taker for this district."

"But I don't see why she should be objectionable if she is competent?"

"Goodness me! Don't you understand that we couldn't fool her? We might just as well tell her our real ages at once!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Know His Book.
"Perkins entered into an agreement with his wife soon after their marriage, twenty years ago, that whenever either lost temper or stormed the other was to keep silence."

"And the scheme worked?"

"Admirably. Perkins has kept silence for twenty years!"—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

other year as President.

The picnic dinner was an all round social hour. Coffee was served by the Norway W. R. C. and Post.

The meeting was again called to order at 1 p. m. for an old time campfire. The program consisted of a recitation by Miss Arline Crocker of So. Paris; songs by Mrs. C. L. Banghart of Bethel; readings by Mrs. E. C. Van der Kerkhoven of Bethel; remarks by Comrade Chapman and Jordan of Bethel; Comrade Noyes of So. Paris and C. E. George of Hebron, Col. E. C. of Dixfield and Rev. Mr. Little of Bethel.

The exercises were inspiring and much enjoyed. The association extended sincere thanks to Comrade Bassett for use of Park and for his courtesies in many ways.

The campfire closed with singing America. The next meeting will be held at Central Park, Norway, Aug. 2, 1912, and as we look forward to future gatherings our sentiments shall be Patriotic.

Tragic Joking

Oswald's friends were always on the lookout for some ruse. He once notified them that on New Year's day he should get the best of them all in some joke, and New Year's morning each received this notice, "Remember."
They were on their guard.

As they were leaving a house where they had breakfasted Oswald slipped on the steps and fell on his back on the sidewalk. His friends rushed to his assistance, but paused before they reached him.

"This is his ruse," some one said.
Clearly the man who was so proud of his talent for mimicry was bent on deceiving them all into thinking him
a dying man, for he lay there moaning pitifully, his face drawn and twisted as if with terrible pain.

His friends stood around and made jokes and puns and hummed lines of comic songs, assuring him all the while that they were not deceived by his acting. At last he gave a hoarse, mournful cry, looked at them sadly
and then ceased to moan or writhe.
In a never to be forgotten moment of horror and sorrow his friends realized that Oswald was dead. "Souvenirs

Caught the Old Sailor.

It was a clever lawyer in a Boston court who took advantage of the natural knowledge he possessed to work upon the mind of a jurymen who did not seem to show much comprehension of a case of suing a street railway for damages.

The doll member was an old sailor, who, though doubtless very keen of perception along some lines, was nevertheless rather slow in his understanding of the points involved in the case being tried, says the New York Journal. The lawyer noticed this and made his strike with this particular man. Approaching the jury box, he addressed himself to this one jurymen
and said:

"Mr. Jurymen, I will tell you how it happened. The plaintiff was in command of the outward bound open car
and stood in her starboard channel.
Along came the inward bound closed car, and just as their bows met she jumped the track, sheered to port and knocked the plaintiff off and ran over him."

The sailor was all attention after this version of the affair and joined in a $5,000 verdict for the injured man.

The Clinching Argument.

A young man representing a well known make of motorcar had called, discussed intelligently the points of the automobile he was endeavoring to sell, had given a flawless demonstration--

But the prospective amateur motorist before mortgaging his house still wanted to be thoroughly convinced, and so he said: "What you say about your car may be all right. The engine runs very nicely, and it looks good to me, but tell me one thing-- have you ever sold any of these cars
to your own personal friends?"

The salesman smiled. "Have I?
Why, three months ago I was engaged to a girl, and I sold one of these identical cars to my prospective father-in-law!"

"Did you marry the girl?"
"Yes, indeed! I've now got the girl, a contented father-in-law and an enthusiastic customer as well."
He made the sale.--Life.

Mules and Kindness.

"In the fifteen years that I have been connected with societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals in this and other cities I never have received a complaint alleging cruelty to a mule," said the humane looking man. "That immunity of mules from harsh treatment is an interesting question. Why are they immune? There are plenty of mules, even in New York. Does nobody beat them? Does nobody underfeed them? If not, why sell? Does a mule show much of a decided ability for taking care of himself that his owner is afraid to abuse him, or do men beat mules and escape punishment because the persons who witness the beating think it is only a mule and not worth bothering about?
What is the explanation of that phase of the mule question anyhow?"--New York Press.

To Rest His Eyes.

The people who quit reading "just to rest their eyes" might take a hint by inference from the reply made by an old illiterate. A passing man found him apparently deeply interested in a paper.

On looking close it became apparent that his paper was upside down, and he was asked forthwith why he held it that.

His reply almost knocked the questioner out. It was:
"Just to rest my eyes!"

A Reversal.

"I suppose you talked a lot of sense to your wife before you were married."

"Yes," answered Mr. Mockton. "Before we were married she thought my nonsense sensible. Now when I try to talk sense she thinks it's nonsense."-- Exchange.

Inspiring Air.

He--Do you think married life ought to be one grand, sweet song? She--
Yes. He--And what air would you prefer for this matrimonial song? She
--A millionaires!

Neatness Help.

Doctor--Well, my good woman, what do you want? Beggar--A quarter, doctor. Give me a quarter and I'll tell everybody that you helped me.

Death is the golden key that opens the palace of eternity.--Milton.

Gotham, N. H., with its busy topographical features in the rear, twenty miles distant, was a real "boom town," which great numbers of wealthy persons resorted. Though with greater and more numerous national attractions there was a secondary place of importance when comparisons were made by those seeking inland places of recreation and enlightenment from personal observation by inference.

Norfolk contained but one true entertainment and barely sufficient acre to accommodate the average amount of business travelers—a three-story building standing where the shop of late Edward C. Howe now appears the head of Mill Hill, entirely aside the way, fronting the Common, who was destroyed by fire upon a Saturday night next previous to May 6, 1890, with a dwelling house and a black slave stable, that stand adjacent to each other—again the railway station and fronting the Common came as it had a little previous to the "boom." Frank A. Chandler, who is now dealer upon the streets of the Hill, at number William II. (descendant) we hundreds of the destroyed "Bath House," keeps of the large stable attached and proprietor of one of the largest stores, and under their care the ancient public house, containing both earth was the largest public hall of the region and the whole consisted of the place was a great loss to every person.

When the "boom" was at its height, the "Common" people were at the hotel line of business thus afforded them an opportunity to raise the transportation of the passengers without the necessity of horse hire and carriage and the carrying of baggage and trunkage, but the latter was much better than what they brought than I can see
